Students gather to celebrate a Reconciliation Week morning tea

We are building the Church on a rock and saying sorry very sincerely. We are preparing for sacraments and staying positive.

A morning tea at Benedict

I was delighted attend a gathering that ended Reconciliation Week. Children had assembled outside the Good Samaritan Hall and enjoyed a little time together with some delicious morning tea. There wasn't too much ceremony except that a number of our indigenous students attended with a friend and I hope knew that they have a special place here at St Mark's. Cakes and sweets, chatter and a quick huddle for a photograph took place and there is always a delightful comment in the big group posing for a camera shot. There is always someone who forgets to face the camera. Thanks to the patient photographer the photo eventually happened and we cheered. My hope is that the pain and the hurt and the suffering that seems so intergenerational will be further healed when we gather and chat and forget the camera and make jokes because in our unity we have a powerful spirit to make change. I want to cheer for reconciliation.

Our Lady Help of Christians Feast Day

The College celebrates the feast of Our Lady Help of Christians every year in a special way. The feast honours our Australian patron saint and it is a particularly important Salesian day. St John Bosco prayed with specific hope in Our Lady and we make a special effort in our remembrance. The celebration this year had its Covid tweak with an online liturgy that connected everyone. There were student representatives online all over the place offering prayers and reading the wisdom of Scripture. Father Jimmy offered a Mass and each of our 41 classrooms was set up in a special way to assemble remotely and connect and make the liturgy more sacred. We sat happily, kind of prayerfully, watching every moment of the filmed religious service. We made the sign of the cross, said responses back to the screen and wondered who would speak next on the telly. The prayers and responses were said loudly but the hymn singing seemed very quiet in my room. I sang loudly for the first few bars in a McNally Caregroup but quickly realised it was a solo and quietened down a bit. I think, however, I heard Benedict singing from across the farm. The final gesture of our whole of school liturgy was a presentation of rocks that we had written on. We had had a moment of meditation and then found a word or a symbol that we felt was important. We wrote them on the rocks. These were presented in a bigger group and an altar was constructed. Everyone seemed to take it seriously. Some of the rock art was delightful and it grew into a unifying symbol. I know that there is a beautiful piece of scripture where Jesus says "Upon this rock I will build my Church" (Matthew 16:18). Jesus may not have had a St Mark's COVID virus online liturgy in mind when he said that, but it seemed to work. It was Church as best we could and there was a sausage sizzle afterwards just like the loaves and fishes. I acknowledge Katie Pole and Darren Giancaspro on producing the video. They had worked hard. I even found Katie in the staff room on Sunday afternoon washing and organising the 900 individual rocks for each student. Some people just want to make things work well for the children. That inspires. Our Lady help of Christians pray for us.

Saying Sorry in Reconciliation Week

There has been a beautiful acknowledgment of the story of reconciliation this week. Emblems and coloured hands have appeared on walls. Indigenous flags have fluttered. The Facebook site produced some compelling images. Posters have been pinned up and a sensitivity has sharpened. There was a reminder of friendship. We tried very hard to understand the story of the stolen generation and we listened to Archie Roach singing 'Took the Children Away' and again to Kevin Rudd saying 'for the pain, hurt and suffering of the stolen generation, we say sorry.' A liturgy took place and there was a unity in understanding and I think a commitment to reconciliation. Once again we gathered in rooms all over the College. Once again ambassadors fronted up to read or pray, welcome and comment so that it could be steamed out. I was part of the live stream that went to every classroom. There were about 20 of us involved using a script and nervously standing in front of a camera. We all wanted it to work but all of us don't have camera composure. I think in the end it was authentic and genuine. The best part was the clapping and high fives when we finished. We had achieved a solemnity and a dignity and there were not too many mistakes. Ms Ellbourn had us all organised. Oh! The high fives didn't connect. We are ever COVID conscious! What was important to remember was that the College sat as one to honour and understand. 'For the pain, hurt and suffering of the stolen generation, we say sorry.'

Year 7 Reflection Day

I had the opportunity to speak with the Year 7s at the start of their Reflection Day that was held within the College. We normally try to take the students off the property for these important days but things have been a bit restricted. I spoke in the Bishop Gallagher Centre about the story that leads to Confirmation and the decisions that they had made around this Sacrament. I spoke about the discernment needed to make Confirmation and my gratitude to the teachers for helping. I mentioned the honour bestowed on the sponsor and the special name that had been chosen. I talked about the importance of parents in the journey of faith and congratulated the students. The day then unfolded with activity and consideration. We even had a visit from the Bishop and he very easily becomes the star of the show. They loved his stories. So now the children are ready and somehow we have to wait patiently for the gathering restrictions to reduce. This is of course a stark contrast to the original apostles huddled in a room, waiting for the Holy Spirit. We can't get to the Cathedral and they didn't have to worry about social distancing.

When asked what would you ask Mary for, Julius responded, 'for safety'

Benedict's "P+O Cruise", Sophie, Meredyn and Nikki

A tale of two surprises

I walked into the Benedict staffroom at lunch the other day. There were two staff members dressed up as Cruise Stewards and there was a distinct P+O feel about the place. There was tropical music playing and Hawaiian Leis were being distributed. A cocktail of fruits had been prepared and an unassuming Meredyn Bell was wandering in behind me. Meredyn was supposed to have been on a cruise as part of Long Service Leave and had to abandon that with a COVID cancellation. She was quite surprised when two staff members plonked on a sunhat, sunglasses and a beach shawl and invited her to imagine. They were not going to let her be flattened by the disappointment. Suddenly the room filled with joy and Meredyn laughed at the thought that next year that there may be equatorial sunshine and long lazy days by the pool. The cocktails may have more of a kick in it and she will let the ocean roll her gently into relaxation. Suddenly the lunch siren sounded. It was time to go back. The P&O celebration created some fun. Nikki Caputo and Sophie Porcelli quickly changed back into teachers.

The next morning I walked into the teacher's bay at Bosco. There were 20 people gathered, chatting and anticipating. Something was up. Everyone had a cupcake courtesy of Miss MKR and all were waiting for a signal to bite. There was to be an announcement in the mouthful of cake. This was to be the ceremonial unveiling of the gender of Elke Adams' little baby. The cakes contained the appropriate food colouring to announce the baby. All bit into the delicious cake and as we devoured streaks of blue were seeping through. A boy! A boy! Congratulations Elke and Jarrad.

There are moments when all of us laugh at a virus that will not destroy a sense of fun in this staffroom.

Our Lady Help of Christians Feast Day
Term 2 is our great celebration of the Feast Day that ties together all the threads that makes us a community. It was Archbishop Polding who instigated the meeting of church leaders to have Mary under the title of Our Lady Help of Christians adopted as Australia's patron saint. Our Lady was also a model and guide for Don Bosco in the way he lived out his vocation and Salesian Spirituality. This Feast Day is about Our Lady helping us in bringing wisdom to our leaders and integrity to our young people. Something that we strive to live out daily in our school community.

The thought of not being able to gather as a whole College was a little daunting in trying to have a special celebration without a gathering. I was very skeptical that it would work. While we were celebrating under different circumstances the engagement and commitment by all made it a wonderful day. I hope that you had the chance to view the liturgy we shared as a College. Click here to view the video. My thanks goes to the staff and students who went to so much effort to ensure that we had a Feast Day celebration atmosphere in the yard at lunchtime.

The pandemic experience we have had links so well to why we take the time to honour Mary Help of Christians with great celebrations as it is her motherly figure we turn to in times of need, trial and difficulty.

In this time of absence of public Masses rather than feeling negative I am choosing to focus on the opportunity for creative ritual and prayer experiences which offer our students an opportunity to understand our tradition better.

Retreats Postponed
This week I had the task of communicating with our Year 11 and 12 students and families that their Faith Formation experiences would not proceed during Term 2. It is my hope that as we navigate the COVID Recovery Road map we will have the right conditions to be able to facilitate these experiences during Term 3. I would like to particularly commend the Year 12s for being so understanding and accepting of the every changing landscape that we are experiencing. In a year where we have had to adapt and step back from so many norms it is important to remember that we still have much to be grateful for.

Year 7 Retreat
When things are different we adapt and overcome. The Year 7 Retreat team decided to re-structure the day where they created a retreat environment on the school campus. In giving it a go we were able to have a day experiencing the Holy Spirit and the gift of service in our lives right here in our own place. My thanks to the Retreat team and the students who so willingly participated in this. Some of the students have reflected on the day for you.

During our retreat we did an affirmation activity with Mrs Adams. It was good because my friends complimented me on my strengths and personality. Maveric

During the retreat I enjoyed giving positive affirmations on people's backs. I also enjoyed praying in colour to focus on the Holy Spirit. Molly

On retreat I was in the Patience group. We watched a video clip that showed a homeless man that fainted and nobody would help him. But when a business man fainted everyone wanted to help him. That really taught me about how people really see each other. Jacob

What I found interesting about the Year 7 retreat was when we were given a piece of paper, stuck sticky tape on the top, and then stuck it on someone else's back. We then continued to take turns in writing kind things on other people's backs anonymously. After we had all written on each other's backs, we then took our own pieces of paper off of our back and looked at everything that other people had written on our papers. Capri

- The retreat was good
- We liked working in small groups
- Enjoyed writing affirmations about one another
- Enjoyed the quiet time in the gardens at the front of the school

7A Religion Class

A visit from the Bishop
Bishop Greg along with Fr Jimmy, took the time to visit our Year 7s last week to encourage them on the week that would have been their Confirmation on Pentecost Sunday. He shared some insights into Confirmation as well as the story of two wolves. He took time to speak with the students after and even shared a knock, knock joke or two. It was a pleasure having you amongst us Bishop Greg.

Reconciliation Week and a time to say Sorry
The last week has been a time to learn about and be informed about our Australian history by learning from our mistakes. Focus weeks like this are good to highlight the need to be educated on our Australian story that has continued for more than 40 000 years. It helps us to continue to connect with the story and all of our people.

Thank you to Lyn Ellbourn and Angela Jordan for bringing it alive for us.

From the Deputy Principal

As we step closer to the end of Term 2, I had a chat with the Benedict SRCs. They have had an interrupted year to their duties and activities because of COVID-19. Pleasingly, they are still very excited to be their class representative and help where they can. A clear pattern of kindness and compassion for others shone through when asked how they assist the school community as SRCs:

- Ceci, RB: I can help people more because they trust me as SRC.
- Luke, RB: When someone falls over on the concrete I help them and tell a teacher.
- Finlay, RG: I get to help other people.
- Patrick, RG: I liked the SRC Prayer Service where I got my badge.
- Ivy, RR: I like being SRC because I can help everyone.
- Adelle, 1B: This year I am being extra kind to everyone because it is important.
- Finn, 1B: This year I have been extra kind and making everyone happy as an SRC.
- Martha, 1G: I help people when they are stuck with homework.
- Luke, 1G: Being SRC I help people when they fall over on the turf and oval.
- Denver, 1R: I like being responsible.
- James, 1R: I like helping people as SRC.
- Chloe, 2B: I like being SRC and wearing my badge.
- Shelton, 2B: That my family are very proud of me.
- Braxton, 2R: I like being a role model.
- Elliza, 3B: I enjoy being SRC this year and helping my classmates.
- Jack, 3B: I enjoy being an SRC because if people need help, I can help them.
- Charlie, 3R: I enjoy helping other people when there is a need.
- Lauren, 3R: I enjoy helping out in the classroom and in soccer games.
- Sloan, 4B: I know other kids in the class are able to rely on me to help them out.
- Caprie, 4R: I love being an SRC because I like caring for everyone and helping people.
- Zac, 4R: This year I have liked being a role model and being a good leader as an SRC.
- Allie, 5B: I enjoy being an SRC during tough times as I can help out my classmates.
- Liam, 5B: I've really enjoyed helping people out and caring for the school community.
- Eve, 5R: I've enjoyed helping others when I can and being extra kind to others.
- Noah, 5R: I've liked being a good role model for the younger students, helping my classmates and being nice to everyone.
- Cleo, 6B: I've enjoyed participating in the Years 5 and 6 Round Robin Netball.
- Angas, 6B: I've enjoyed all the opportunities that Year 6s are given to participate in.
- Lucy, 6G: This year I like being SRC because I get to help other students and be extra kind and nice to more people
- Bailey, 6G: This year, I like being SRC because it is my final year of Primary School and I also wanted to be nice and help everyone I come across.
- Sienna , 6R: This year, I have liked having Buddy Lessons with my buddies, Aubrey (RR) and Harlow (LL). It makes me feel like I am a role model for them.
- Archie, 6R: This year I like being a role model for the school and for the younger kids.

Deputy's Note: Cleo and Angas also enjoy helping others but were asked to think of something else for some variety!!!

Cyber Awareness: Online Gaming Workshop for Parents and Carers
Avoid the risks, reap the benefits!
This workshop is for parents and carers who need help with a young person's online gaming.

Many young people are spending several hours a day playing online games, exposing them to risks never experienced before. Many parents and caregivers feel overwhelmed with the challenge of addressing the issues to support their children.

The Online Gaming Workshop is here to help bridge the gap between parent concerns and young people's interests. Parents and caregivers can get up to date on all the latest stats, technology and lingo while learning about all the major risks and benefits of online gaming. This workshop will provide strategies that will help parents and caregivers address concerns with the young person in a constructive and connecting way.

Date:
Wednesday 10 and 17 June, 10:30 am – 12.00 pm (2 x 90 minute online sessions)

Cost:
This workshop is free of charge

Booking Information:
Register now for the sessions via email: b.seby@rasa.org.au, or b.curnow@rasa.org.au
You will receive a link to participate in this online workshop.

Spotlight on ESport Heroes

All3giance team members- Ethan, Latrell, Amelia and Louie celebrate a victory

Makon, Angus and Toby debate their strategy

St Mark's participates in META High School Esports, playing games against other schools in Australia and New Zealand.

The two Leagues the College plays in are Division 2 League of Legends (Australia and New Zealand Schools), and the SA/NT Division for Rocket League.

League of Legends (LoL) is a five-player game, where teams have to work together to defeat the opposing team's 'nexus'. Think of a game of Chess, where each player gets to control one of the pieces, and working simultaneously, make their way across the board to checkmate the other team's king.

All players have made tremendous improvements in their game play during the first few weeks of competition, but even more importantly, their teamwork, collaboration and communication skills have blossomed.

There are two LoL players I would specifically like to thank: Ana Rogatti Rossini and Amelia Cricchiola. Ana is a student in Australia as part of the Rotary Youth Exchange program, and an experienced player. She has demonstrated patience with the new players, teaching them strategy, helping them to develop their ability to support one another, and providing excellent resources to help players understand how to out-think and out-play the opposition.

Amelia Cricchiola is new to LoL this year, playing on the team All3giance. She recently stepped in on the shortest possible notice (one minute) to play as a substitute for Spetsnaz when one of their players had a technical hitch. Not only was she willing to do this, she participated fully, working with new team mates to accomplish several impressive goals.

While the LoL teams are yet to achieve their first win, every week the players are improving on the week before, by 100%. The students are forming a very positive and supportive squad, showing resilience under pressure, and I have no doubt, will end the season with a huge improvement in their game play.

Rocket League is a three-player game. Working together, teams use vehicles to play soccer and score goals. Due to the variety of devices this game can be played on, students currently play from home. This means they have to demonstrate responsibility to connect with their opposition's captain, make sure all their players are ready to enter the game on time, and to communicate using voice channels to make sure they are able to strategise.

Team captains are responsible for making sure their team are ready to play, that they have communicated with the opposing team's captain, and that they report their results. The following students have taken on the role of captain, and shown fantastic development in their organisation and personal responsibility: Jack Higginbottom (The Yumbows), Mitchell Court (Cloud 8), Angus Thompson (whendidiask), Adan Cowin (Team 5), Brodie Fowler (Billabong Bats), Jonas Blight (Merks) and Jackson Staker (Team 9).

Our League of Legends Teams are:

Spetsnaz Makon Westdorp (C), Angus Forster , Connor Smart, Toby Ellis-Nunn and Ethan Park

All3giance Ana Rogatti Rossini (C), Amelia Cricchiola (C), Louie San Gabriel, Latrell Smith, Ethan Cricchiola and Isiah Khan

Creative student projects

Year 7s were introduced to basic Graphic Design to create a range of colourful egg cartons for McNally Farm. This task was structured for students to take home during isolation and use any materials or programs they had available to them . There were some specifications that the labels required, so students needed to use the design process to consider the best options for their presentation.
Mrs Amy Tilbrook, Visual Arts Teacher

"When I started researching for my egg carton label, I liked the idea of a red rustic barn and a chicken sitting on its eggs. I started researching how I could use these pictures in my egg carton label. I found that the barn would work well on a lush green countryside while the hen would work well as the main picture. There were many things I would've liked to include but there was not enough space so only the best ideas were included." Mitchell

The students in Stage 1 Child Studies have been learning about sensory development in children. As a part of their assessment the students were asked to create a toy for an infant aged between 6-12 months that stimulated two or more of their senses. The students creations are bright and colourful, included many different textures and can make lots of noises. The students have done a magnificent job!
