We welcomed back a group of our newest Old Scholars, those from the Class of 2016 who achieved an ATAR of over 90, for the annual Dux Assembly. Photographed are, back, Ann Russack, Principal Greg Hay, Caitlyn Farrugia, Jessie Veitch, special guest Aleesha DeGiglio, Ella Gibson, College Dux Annie Ford, Maddison Pryor, Meriam De Vries, Shane Fantinel and Deputy Kate Kilpatrick. Front, College Captain Jayden Gonsalves, Sam Eades, Caleb Thornton, Patrick Williams and College Captain Ebony Bennier.

Greetings to our alumni, you are remembered and always welcome.

I had a very clear insight into the importance of the gathering of past scholars when a huge number of men from the late 50s and early 60s came back to town for a reunion. We enjoyed the company of 65 past students of Salesian College at a reunion held over two days on a weekend in June.

The College welcomed students of 60 years ago as well as past Principal Fr Lawrie Moate to a cocktail reception at the College, a dinner on the Saturday and then a Mass and a barbecue breakfast at Benedict on the Sunday. We wanted them to feel welcomed. We made an effort to entertain and to feed. We showed them around the place and we delighted at their reactions to the changes. We wanted them to know that they had established a wonderful Salesian legacy and I was very grateful for the army of staff and students who supported the idea of celebrating the 60th anniversary since this campus life began. I thank Bob Ward, Maurie Dwyer and Brian Connolly for their initiative and hard work in preparing the reunion. They made sure people made the most of this special opportunity.

I heard many precious stories and was inspired by the strength of their brotherhood on that weekend. Education was so very different in those times and the old scholars brought a deep appreciation for their experience. There were not too many unhappy memories, and if there were, the old scholars had learned to laugh at them. I think that we got to the essence of things: the friendships, the simplicity, the Salesian guidance, the survival, the mischief, the sense of thanks. We got a chance to remember Don Bosco and his heart full of love for young blokes who needed a direction or some special support. Clearly those Salesians have been important; deeply influential. They have made an impact on so many lives. So we welcomed in particular Fr Lawrie Moate who embodies a past time of committed men who built a school and guided boys.

The College is very committed to its history and to the people who created an enduring legacy. We saw them at our reunion. We heard them talk and even sing. They are the people who have created a spirit that I have learned about – a Salesian spirit. Their fun, scholarship, relationships, achievements have created and sustained something. They became great men. Salesian men. They raised families and learned about loving and how hard that is. They made careers, built lives, kept going and they returned to their old school now so different. I believe were enriched by the connections made.

We are very keen to keep alive the flame of Salesian history, keep an awareness of how past scholars are going and to tell them about the progress of the school. The spirit of Salesian College lives on.

It is now time to prepare for the St Mark's reunion of the scholars from 1977, 1987, 1997 and 2007. I hope to meet you. We have much to share.

Warm regards

Greg Hay

AROUND THE SCHOOL

Around the College

The tradition of the Benedict Easter Re-enactment continues with our Year 6's presenting two stellar performances for the students, staff and College families.

For the fourth year running, Gallagher were victorious at the Bosco Athletics Day. Principal Greg Hay is pictured with Captains Lawson Munzberg and Joanna Lloyd.

St Mark's won the Spencer Gulf Athletics and Ardia Mead (centre) won best female on the day. She is pictured with Captains Lawson Munzberg and Maggie Dickeson.

Old Scholar and long standing staff member Melissa Gadaleta was announced the Deputy Principal of Benedict Campus in Term One.

Feast Day was celebrated in term 2 with Mass, a sausage sizzle and plenty of fun activities for students, from the youngest to the oldest!

Our Immersion students are heading to the Philippines in the upcoming school holidays.

New Developments

Many Old Scholars would remember the new gymnasium being built at Bosco in 1992, with both primary and secondary students accessing the exciting new facility. Twenty-five years on and the current gym is being re-constructed into a new STEM and Science Centre ready for March 2018. Don't worry, the students won't miss out on a gym... A state-of-the-art double court gymnasium is also being built at the Southern end of the oval, with project completion set for June 2018.

Aleesha DeGiglio

Aleesha DeGiglio was our special guest at the Dux Assembly. She is an accomplished Old Scholar who returned to share her experience of 'life after school' with our Year 12's.

As spoken by Aleesha to our current Year 12 students:

I attended St Mark's for my primary and secondary education to which I graduated in 2010 and have undertaken further study at university. I have now graduated with a Bachelor of Laws and Legal Practice and Bachelor of Management and I am now a practicing solicitor.

I look at the College as a place, which assisted me in creating my foundations for who I am today. I have many amazing memories for my time here, it is here where I made friends to last a life time and where my values and beliefs were installed for the future.

It is a very special place filled with teachers who can encourage and support your development. You are very lucky to have this support, make the most of your resources you have at this time. A particular teacher here had quite an effect on me during my time at the College and without her support and guidance I don't believe I would have chosen the career path I am on today. The College should be congratulated on all the work they do in installing the right values and beliefs in all of you to ensure you will reach your full potential.

Seven years ago, I was sitting in your position, a Year 12 ready to embark on my final year of my secondary education. I was feeling nervous, excited, anxious and the pressure of what the year was going to hold. I encourage you all to knuckle down at this time and try your best in everything you do, you will be rewarded for your efforts in your results you achieve. Having a vision is a very important part in this, setting goals and ticking them off as you go throughout the year will install you with a sense of resilience and passion whilst setting foundations for your future.

By no means may this journey only lead to university but to other forms of study and training. All of these accomplishments require your true dedication and if you put in your full potential you will reap the rewards.

My journey did take me to university, straight out of Year 12, a young girl from the country moving to the city with many hopes and dreams but also very naive about what to expect.

I'm here to tell you today, it won't be easy if you choose to go to university or follow another form of study. Moving away from home, away from your support networks, your family and most of your friends will be a challenge. Your life will change but at this time I can only recommend to you to use your support networks. I cannot thank my parents and family enough for being there for me at this time, it is their support and encouragement that will get you through.

At times during this journey it may get tough, you will miss home and the creature comforts. As I realized in my journey it may not be for everyone, and a few of my friends decided to move back home and as this happens you will question yourself and your want to keep going. I encourage you to keep resilient. Around half of the people I started university with did not continue with the course they began with, you should remember that whatever you choose to do going forward, you have the liberty to change your mind. If you are not enjoying something I encourage you to find that thing you enjoy and that challenges you the most so you have the passion to continue at it.

I can say to you today, keep at it, you will overcome these challenges and be stronger for it. Your journey is all about growth and you can only learn by going through these experiences.

Also, not just moving away from home but you will need to adapt to a whole different mechanism of learning. Like most of you here today, I was a high achiever in my secondary schooling but upon commencing university this was not the case. You will go from being one of the best, to being average at best. This can often be demoralizing and dampen your excitement of your new journey. At these times always remember your goals and aspirations to strive to. You don't need to be the best or receive the awards you just need to do the best you can do and make yourself proud.

At university I was often told the story of the person who received High Distinctions in everything he attempted. At the end of the day this person was not employable in the workforce as he may have been very smart but did not possess the people skills to succeed in his industry. I have always kept this balance in the forefront of my mind. It is not only your intellectual skills that will assist you in achieving your goals but the skills you are developing day by day and your interactions with everyone you meet will build your character and develop you into that person you need to be to accomplish your goals.

I can truly say this is what I aimed for during my study and can reinforce with you that balance is the key. And now, after five and a half years of study I have achieved two degrees. There were moments where I may have felt it was not possible. Amongst the countless exams, tests, assignments and sleepless nights never lose sight of the passion which is driving you to continue.

Today, I am a practicing lawyer, at a law firm in Adelaide. I am living my dream in my current field of family law. I have a passion for helping people and this field for me is very rewarding yet every day challenges me with a new and unexpected adventure.

I wish you all the best in whatever path you choose to pursue. Your future can hold whatever you believe you can achieve.

Now as you embark on your adult journey, the foundations the College have installed in you will remind you everyday that you can achieve whatever you put your mind towards. The world is yours to shine. You don't have to be better than anyone else but I encourage you to strive to be better than you ever thought you could be.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Courtney Gum

Old Scholar Courtney Gum is making her mark on the football world, just as she did as a student at St Mark's. Attending the College for her secondary schooling, Courtney was a good student, an admirable sportswoman, a boarder and a College Captain in 1999.

Courtney writes:

When I think of my school days, I have strong memories of sitting in the yard at lunch and recess hanging around with everyone – my memories are that we had a lot of good times. I had lots of good friends at St Mark's. My closest friends were Nadia White, Emma Clark, Leah Williams, Carla Griffin and Lauren McDonald (all whom I boarded with). I was also good friends with Mark Paparella, Luke Slattery and really lots more but too many to name.

As for my favourite teacher.. hmm that it a tough one! I really enjoyed Physics and our teacher Mr Boyle. He used to wear bow ties which was quite novel! Fr Joe was at St Mark's during my time there – he used to write everything we told him in his little black book! I would love to get hold of them to see what he wrote down!

Immediately after school I moved to Adelaide to study Physiotherapy at the Uni SA. Fellow Old Scholar Mark Paparella was also in my Physio course. There weren't many country kids studying Physio in my course! I also played netball for the Cougars netball club.

After my course I worked in the Queen Elizabeth Hospital as a Physiotherapist. I really loved it there. I met lots of people and was still playing netball. After 2 years I went on a working holiday in the UK which was a great experience.

Today, I own a Physiotherapy business in Port Noarlunga which is a suburb South of Adelaide. I have now been a Physiotherapist for 14 years! I really love being a Physio – I seem to enjoy it more every year that I do it.

I am also playing Women's AFL football for Adelaide Uni and loving that. Traditionally, I had always played netball but an opportunity came up to play football. Kicking the football with my brothers on our farm in Booleroo Centre certainly paid off!

While I don't have any firm connections with the College now, I still know many people from St Mark's and it is really nice to chat about our time there.

GREG PHILLIPS AND LUKE SLATTERY (Class of 1999) represented 'The Slugs' in the AFL Masters held in Shanghai, China recently. During the trip they played teams from China, Japan, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Vietnam, Thailand, Philippines, Cambodia and met AFL Chief Executive Officer Gillon McLaughlan.

COLLEGE

Pauline Broekx

PAULINE has been an integral part of the St Mark's boarding community for 17 years.

Pauline has decided to finish her time as a House Parent at Salesian House. And whilst tea time and study time will now be quieter for Pauline, there are many young people who will miss her deeply. Pauline has that extraordinary energy for goodness and the deepest commitment for children who are living at the College and away from home. She is quiet, meticulous and generously smiles. She is reflective and sensitive, gentle and respectful. She is a gracious person and is a clear expression of our spirit. Pauline will be missed.

Pauline writes:

After a 27 year long career in banking I was approached by Gary and Nita Stokes in 1999 to assist in Victory House at Sacred Heart Home in Crystal Brook, as they were taking a step back from the Boarding House that they helped establish in 1985.

I commenced at Sacred Heart Home in 1999. Initially I was doing the book work in the mornings and assisting in Victory House, which housed 40 Year 11 and 12 students, in the evenings. When the administration of Sacred Heart Home was absorbed by the College in 2000 I worked in Special Education during the day and in Victory House in the evenings. I also helped out in the Library when required and for a short time I was the Oc Health person. The move of the Boarding House from Crystal Brook to Port Pirie in 2007 was a major event. It was quite controversial at the time but the boarders have enjoyed many benefits from being located on the College grounds.

Some of my favourite memories are of our Quiz Nights which involved boarders and teachers. Often they had a theme and students and teachers dressed up. One in particular was a huge success, when Bec Hill, Kellie Alm and Suzie Hallett organised a fundraiser for the Victorian Bushfire victims and over $700 was raised.

I have enjoyed a wonderful working relationship, spanning 16 years, with Denise and David Arbon. College Staff who have left a mark – Sir, with his weekly visits to tutor maths – he did this even when we were in Crystal Brook (and at one stage was our Boarding Coordinator!), John Gibson for his tireless support for Year 12's over many years. All the teachers involved in our Tuesday night liturgies over the years - inspirational.

Of course many of the students have also left an impression; some for their dedication to their studies and their ambition to succeed in their chosen field, others for their sporting achievements or participation in drama and music.

It was an honour to be entrusted with the care of these young people, to provide guidance and support, a word of encouragement and sometimes to be a shoulder to cry on. For some families, such as the Fromm family from Pekina, I have cared for all five of their children and the Geddes family from Wirrabara, four of their children over the years.

The boarding family has been my family and I feel such pride when I read or hear of an achievement by one of our boarding family members.

I now look forward to spending more time with the six little people in my life.

My children attended the College:

Zoe attended St Mark's in 1994-1998. Her friends were Michelle Redden, Lauren Kerin, Ruth Redden, Tracy Stott and Esther Nutt.

Zoe especially remembers Mrs Congdon's quirky sense of humour. Also Miss Katrina Yates, a PE teacher who shared Zoe's love of hockey. Zoe is a Registered Nurse at the Waikerie Hospital. She lives at Taylorville with her husband Dave, a fruit grower, and their three boys.

Luke attended St Mark's 1996 - 2000. His friends were Paul Fogarty, Chris Fogarty, Liam Connelly, Ryan Arbon, Joseph Button.

Mr Hall, who taught Luke Year 8 Maths and Science, Father Joe Lee (Caregroup Teacher and Chemistry), Brother John Larkin, a great mentor and friend and Mr Gibson, a very good Year 12 PE teacher. Luke married Sallyann Rayner in 2006 and they have 3 children. Luke works at the Ibis in Adelaide and is Director of Sales, Revenue and Distribution. They live in Light Pass in the Barossa Valley.

Janet Haskett

Janet enjoying time with her grandchildren, Flynn and Zara.

Janet has been an iconic part of Home Economics at St Mark's College.

Janet Haskett has been at the College for over thirty years. She is an enduring figure of hard work and determination. She has generously served this community and taught thousands of students. She has been a significant leader and a wonderful friend to many. She is deeply caring and an inspiring professional person. Janet always brings a toughness and a focus to her work and a generosity and perseverance.

Janet is a person who embodies so much of what is central to St Mark's. She was a person of integrity and loyalty. She was a person who never gave in. She has a faithfulness and respect. It is why children work so well under care.

Janet writes:

I started teaching in 1973 in Whyalla and spent eight years working for the Education Department.

My teaching career at St Marks College started in 1986 and during that time have seen many major changes to the College.

During that time I have worked as a teacher in many different subject areas undertaking various roles within the College.

Extracurricular activities included coordinating the St Mark's netball for many years and giving me an opportunity to meet many parents which formed into life-long friendships. Memories return of this period of time working with a very enthusiastic worker and supporter in Father Dennis Handley.

The biggest impact on the College was the changes from having four separate campuses to what exists today. Memories return of the huge moving day at the closing of Gertrude Street, shifting the senior school to Bosco, when trucks and people transferred furniture and resources from one to the other all to be ready to start the next week.

Not only the College changed but so has Home Economics. My early experiences here was teaching in a dated transportable with 4 stoves and 6 sewing machines. As the only Home Economics teacher I shared the centre with the many mice that liked to visit and was responsible for shopping and cleaning the facility. I remember one group of girls that thought the place could do with a good scrub. They arrived with scrubbing brushes and proceeded on their hands and knees to give the place a complete scrubbing. (They did prefer practical work over theory requirements).

Home Economics continued to grow and with that came additional teachers and a new centre. This has allowed the subject to develop and makes each day a pleasant working environment.

One of the main highlights of teaching in a Catholic school is attending the Year 12 Retreats. Over the last 30 years I have only missed two Retreats (usually attending as head cook). It is a very emotional experience as I remember them starting in Year 8 and over the next 5 years develop into mature, young adults. It is an experience that will always be with me.

My children, Verity, James and Alistair attended the College for all of their schooling and have many fond memories of sharing our Sunday evening with Betty Prest and Father Ray Cau. They have all moved on and it is a delight spending time with their families, especially my grandchildren. This year has renewed my connections with the Benedict Campus as my granddaughter Zara started in Reception, therefore creating new links.

The 31 years have been eventful, rewarding and have added to my faith journey, and the care and support the College has offered to me and my family will always bring back fond memories.
